CAMPBELL & M'DERMOT,

Friday Morning. April 28.

THERE is no telling the character of punishment that would have been visited upon Booth by the universal public voice, had be been captured alive. The popular feeling was at a loss to devise a death ignominious enough to express the general horror at his crime. Hence the tidings yesterday that he had been shot and killed, as it were by the hand of war, were only negatively welcome. The regret was profoun dthat it fell to him thus to die .-Men desired to make his end a warning for all time to come, something to be rememhered above and beyond all other deaths known to history. There was absolutely a longing to see his name and crime stand out separate and alone in the very blackness of utter darkness.

Perhaps it was well that the poor wretch cutlaw. His name will be none the less a syconym for every infamy because of the manner of his death. His crime was such as to exile him from every sympathy of God and man for all eternity. It may well loyal men. be doubted whether a darker soul ever entered the regions of the world below.

It has been supposed that Booth would have revealed something important had he been taken alive. We doubt it. Under us a letter in the London Standard of April excruciating torment he might perchance have disclosed the true secret and explanation of his deed. But it is much more likely that he would have told all sorts of tales, whatever be considered most likely Carolina. The writer confesses that he to be credited by his captors. Harrold no doubt possesses all that Booth knew, and we have him alive. The value of extorted confessions will be fully tried on him. We may prepare oprselves to hear all sorts of lies at the start from him. At the end he may consider it well to prepare his soul probably with Lee's consent, in order that for the dread realities of another life by confessing the whole truth.

THE Cincinnati Commercial of Wednesday contains the following dispatch from a correspondent at Indianapolis, Indiana: "From Mr. Greene, Provost Marshal at Shelbyville, I have additional particulars of the disgraceful affair at Marietta, on the reception of the news of President Lincoln's death, which I telegraphed some days since. Mr. Greene investigated the matter, and found the facts to be, with some few exceptions, as I stated them.— The effigy of Precident Lincoln was pre-pared by a fellow named Lee, who also did the bell-ringing. The parties engaged in the bell-ringing. The parties engaged in the singing, dancing and shouting, were mostly women, their fathers, husbands and brothers, looking on approvingly, but taking no active part. The women soted like howling dervishes, shouting glory to God, embracing such other, and saying that at last the country would be free.—Had it not been for the interference of air.

Greene, the town would have been hurned Greene, the town would have been burned by the exasperated citizens of Shelbyville, who were only restrained by his promising to have the matter looked into by the military authorities.' It makes one's blood cardle to read of the fiendish demonstration above described. Are these Indiana copperheads human beings or devils incaraate, hissing hot from hell? No such monsters ever appeared on the earth before-and these in the midst of a civilized and christianized people, in the nineteenth century. Devils themselves might well stand aghastat seeing themselves so surpassed in malignity. We cannot believe that in all rebeldom there will be anywhere made so shocking a display.

But no words of invective can half express the horror which every right minded citisen must feel at such a demonstration ss that in Indiana. How does it come about that such a thing was possible? By what process have American citizens been reduced to such utter diabolism? There is but one answer; a false and malevolent partisan press has thus transformed men into fiends, capable of exulting in assassination. These Indianians are doubtless constant readers of connerhead new years that Abraham Lincoln was a despot, liberty of the people, and needlessly deluging the land with blood. Ignorant, narinspiration of these malignant newspapers, they have come to believe the lies upon which they have fed, and to imbibe a spirit the latter said to be worth $500,000. more wicked, if possible, than that rebellion self. Here is a specimen of the general

The man who votes for Lincoln now is a traitor. Lincoln is a traitor and murderer. He who pretending to war for, wars against the constitution of our country is a traitor, and Lincoln is one of these men. He who and Lincoln is one of these men. He who calls and allures men to certain butchery, is a "murderer, and Lincoln has done all this. Had any former democratic President warred upon the constitution or trified with the destinies of the nation as Lincoln has, he would have been hurled to perdition long since. And if he is elected to misgovern for another four years, we to hisgovern for another four years, we trust some bold hand will pierce his heart with dagger point for the public good."

What but assassination and approval of can be expected of men who read and accept such stuff as this? It is time now that the lines should be sharply drawn, and that the leaders and presses of the loyal opposition should denounce and expel from the party the treasonable and murderous copperhead element, quite too long tolererated for the reputation of the party and the peace of the country. And it is quite time that all tolerance of traitors and assassins should come to an end everywhere.

The San Francisco resolutions of respect for Mr. Lincoln contained a significant passage; "God have mercy on the souls of the rebel chiefs." When Jeff, Davis and John C. Breckinridge hear these words from a United States Judge they may comprehend their meaning.

Roger A. Pryor, the infamous, in connection with some of his rebel sympathisers, bedd a meeting at Peteraburg Va. for the held a meeting at Petersburg, Va., for the parpose of condemning the assassination of the President. With what consistency this fellow can sympathize with the loyal people may be judged from the following extract from a speech made by Pryor in September, 1860, as published in the Norfolk Herald. The Herald said:

Hon. Roger A. Pryor, in his Ashland Hall speech, while commenting on the reply of Mr. Douglas to the secession question pro-pounded to him in Norfolk, wound up with the startling declaration, that if a Presi-dent of the United States sheuld have the temerity to use force to prevent the secas-sion of a Southern State or States from the Union, and no effort from other quarter abould be put forth to resist the exercise of Federal power, he (the Hon. Roger A. Pry-or) solitary and alone, would be the Bru-tus to plant a dayzer in his bear. s to plant a dagger in his heart.

It is not to be forgotten that the same man made the same declaration here in Wheeling, at a speech in the Atheneum .-Handreds of our citizens heard him and, to their credit be it remembered, a number of them hissed the vile traitor.

We earnestly hope, ere the end shall ome, it will be found that the Government has not yet done with this braggart died as he did. He perished as an accursed Pryor. All his protestations of sympathy or sorrow should not save him from the fate he deserves—that of a traitor of the meanest possible character. Upon his head

The Washington, Pa., Examiner of yesterday, reports that oil has been struck at the Sander's Mill on Cross Creek one mile from the Obio river and three from the Peonsylvania line. The same paper says that a scientific writer in the New York Petroleum Record "puts down Hancock county, West Virginia, as the great oil centre." It would seem that from several notices in the Examiner that the furor along Oross Creek about oil is increasing and that there are flattering prospects of success.

The Galena, Ill., Gazette says the wife of Jeff. Davis was a daughter of General Zachary Taylor. The marriage was a clandestine one, and we believe took place in 1832, at the hotel in this city, formerly owned and kept by Wm. Bennett. It stood where the Congregational church now stands. The fact of Jeff's marriage here we have heard stated, but will not wouch for its correctness. Gen. Taylor understood Davis' character fully, and pronounced him "an unprincipled scoundrel and bypocritical adventurer," and of course, would consent to no relationship

How the Late President Looks in his Coffin.
Correspondence of the New York World.

Death has fastened into his frozen face il the character and idiosyancrasy of life. He has not changed one line of his grave, grotesque countenance, nor smoothed out a single feature. The hue is rather bloodless and leaden; but he was always sallow. less and leader; but he was always sallow. The dark eyebrows seem abruptly arched; the beard, which will grow no more, is shaved close, save the tuft at the short, small chin. The mouth is shut, like that of one who had put his foot down firm, and so are the eyes, which look as calm as slumber. The collar is short and awkward, turoed over the stiff elastic cravat, and whatever energy or humor or tender gravity marked the tiving face, is hardened into its pulseless outline. No corpse in the world is better prepared, according to apits pulseless outline. No corpse in the world is better prepared, according to appearances. The white satin around it, reflects sufficient light upon the face to show us that death is really there; but there are sweet roses and early magnoliss, and the balmiest of lillies strewn around, as if the flowers had begun to bloom even upon his office. Looking on uninterrupted ly, for there is no pressure, and henceforward the place will be through during the thought the production of the defeat of Sherman in North quences of the defeat of Sherman in North and Alexander, the embalmers or injectors, prepared his body so bandsomely that the President had it twice disinterred to look upon it. The same men, in the same way, have made perpetual these beloved lineaments. There is no blood in the body; it was drained by the jugular vein and sacredly preserved, and through a cutting or rails." But it had finally "become as clear as the sun." Here is the explanation "The field of war has been narrowed, probably with Lee's consent, in order that leaving the exterior line, be might be able to lawnch his thunderbolts, one after another, successively upon the armies of Sherman, Schofield and Meade."

That is it, no doubt. We shall be pleased to bear the correspondent's description of the launching of those thunderbolts.

It was drained by the jugular vein and scredly preserved, and through a cutting on the inside of the thigh the empty blood-vessels were charged with a chemical preparation which soon hardened to the consistency of stone. The long and bony body is now hard and stiff, so that beyond its present position it can not be moved any more than the armor legs of a statue. It has undergone many changes. The scalp has been removed, the brain scooped out the chest opened, and the blood emptied. All that we see of Abraham Lincoln, so cunningly contemplated in this splendid coffin, is a mere shell, an effigy, a soulpture. He is a mere shell, an effigy, a sculpture. He lies in sleep, but it is the sleep of marble. All that made this flesh vital, sentient, and affectionate is made for its lies. effectionate, is gone forever.

Can Take Care of Himself. In a recent speech, ex-Governor Wright, f Indiana, said : "As to the cant about the negro's ability to take care of himself, he had these facts to relste, and he would do so with-out comment: In 1862 the Rebel Legisla-ture of South Carolina raised a committee to inquire into the expediency of ensiaving the 5,000 free negroes of Charleston. Out of that amount of property $300,000 worth of it was composed of slaves. That the 9,000 free negroes of New Orleans in 1860 were worth as much per capita as the white people of Louisians; that these free negroes had their own schools, their own benevolent societies, &c. These facts, be contended, proved that the free negro was capable of taking care of himself. He also stated that a lady who owned 500 negros in 1860 told bim that she had lost them all but 200 by the beginning of 1864. That year she made a contract with them to cultivate her farm on the shares, and that last year, under such a system, where the negro.

TO INVALID SOLDIERS!

Artificial Legs, Arms, and A Large and Attractive Stock Crutches.

U. S. GENERAL HOMPITAL, WHERLIES, W. Va., April 28th, 1865.]
I TAKE pleasure in stating to you that I have carefully examined the Artificial Logs manufactured by LFONARD LEGRAN, and for which you are agent. For simplicity of construction as we'l as durability and convenience, I have never seen anything to equal them, and I therefore cheerfully recommend them to any who are unfortunate enough to need artificial limbs.
Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
JOHN KIRKER,
A. A. Surgeon, U. E. A., in charge.

WHEELING, W. VA. April 37th, 1865
I have carefully examined the Artificial Legs of LEONARD LEGRAN, and find them simple in their construction, of good workmanship, light and very substantially made. They will be quite as serviceable as any artificial legs in use, and on account of their simplicity and strength less liable to need repairs. I cheerfully recommend them to any who may need artificial limbs.
